Times Description

The focal point of this sleek, small wine bar is the Enomatic system that displays and serves the bar's featured wines. These self-serve linear dispensers – three rectangular ones along the walls and a larger circular one that dominates the center of the room – dole out 1-ounce pours while keeping the uncorked bottles at the proper temperature. You pre-pay for a wine card, and when you're ready to taste something, you slip the card into the reader that's embedded in each display case and pick your poison. The cost of a pour is listed above each bottle. Pourtal also offers a small selection of appetizers like olives, breadsticks, chorizo slices with pecorino and peppadews, mixed nuts, crostini with various toppings (including most interestingly a combo of grevenbroecker blue cheese and chocovivo chocolate) and a variety of flatbreads.
